

The Storm Spotter

On a rainy windswept spring like day.
When severe weather starts to come our way.
There's a special person who helps to tell.
Where weather radar doesn't "see" so well!
No matter how sophisticated we may get,
the human eye is the best tool yet!
When cold air meets that which is warm
Often there develops a violent storm!
And, were it not for their sighted alarm.
You and I might possibly experience harm!
When these clouds so darkened and gray
produce funnel shapes that whirl and sway.
Many is the time it's these folks who sound;
"A tornado is spotted -- It's on the ground!!"
And, if weathermen ever needed an assist.
Likely it's these folks who just can't resist!
The desire to go where the action occurs
is what causes the storm spotter to always stir!
And, if by chance human lives are saved.
We need to thank those who have braved!!
They were there to go help their fellow man.
Giving them time to activate a severe weather plan.
It's the National Weather Service who always needs such people as these to accomplish spotter deeds!

By: Eddie M. Phillips
Amateur Radio Station: N4EMP